Visual art feast

A new AU$90 million hotel development that pays tribute to landscape artist John Olsen, Australia's greatest living painter, has just opened in Melbourne. The Olsen Hotel, the jewel in the crown of the Art Series group, sits on the corner of Toorak Road and Daly Street in South Yarra. Guests can expect all of the five star comforts with the added visual feast of 492 Olsen works across the 229-room hotel. Apart from great works of art, the hotel also has a spectacular glass bottom swimming pool, resplendent sun deck, gymnasium, opulent rooftop Olsen Penthouse Suite and high-tech conferencing facilities. Guests have the choice of two dining experiences, including BlueBottle restaurant, a modern Australian seafood bar, and the chic Steer Bar & Grill that features dishes prepared on a Brazilian Churrasco charcoal grill. Norbu day spa promises to rejuvenate guests and South Yarra locals with their bespoke health and beauty pampering packages.

An Easter treat

A new ecological resort that encourages visitors to sample the local culture while caring for the environment is set to open its doors on Easter Island this July. Conserving natural resources and the archaeological and spiritual heritage of the island is the foundation of the philosophy of Hangaroa Eco Village & Spa. The property looks out on the ocean and is surrounded by abundant vegetation. It is less than a kilometre from the airport and just steps from the nearest town, so visitors can easily roam the local community. The resort features a hotel with restaurants, a museum, spa, shops, movie theatre and pool, all built and modelled on an old ceremonial village.
